

Benigna Boza-Kiss
Central European University

Ms Benigna Boza-Kiss completed her MSc at the Central European University (CEU, Budapest, Hungary) in Environmental Sciences and Policy in 2005 after graduating as a Biologist at Eotvos University (Budapest, Hungary) in 2003. Currently she works at the International Institute for Applied Systems Analysis (Laxenburg, Austria), while pursuing to complete her PhD studies in Environmental Sciences and Policy at CEU. Her primary research interest lies with public policy development, assessment, and monitoring in the area of energy efficiency, climate mitigation and the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Her PhD research is about energy efficiency policy interactions in the buildings sector. She uses ex-post and ex-ante policy, programme and intervention assessments as an input, which she supports with surveys and expert interviews.
