

Samantha Pilato, University of Bologna

Samantha is a Global MBA Candidate at Bologna Business School. Her program is specialized in Green Energy & Sustainable Businesses. Prior to studying in Italy, Samantha worked in the education industry in the United States for three years at Colorado State University and then at the University of California, Washington Program in Washington, D.C. (UCDC).

Samantha has a Bachelor of Science degree in Health Science with a focus in Public Health from The College at Brockport, State University of New York.

Samantha's research interests include smart cities, innovation technology, green strategy, operational efficiency and the carbon footprint of big data.